Being a professional Product Owner involves much more than writing requirements or maintaining a Product Backlog. Product Owners need a broader understanding of product management and must be able to use that knowledge to maximize the value created by their products.

Professional Scrum Product Owner™ (PSPO) is a two-day course focused on the wider responsibilities of the Product Owner role. It is designed for Product Owners, Agile product managers, and professionals who are responsible for the success of a software product in the market.

Throughout the course, participants strengthen and develop their Product Owner knowledge through instructor-led learning and team-based exercises. The wider responsibilities involved in delivering a successful product become clearer from an Agile perspective.

The course also explores metrics that can be used to track value creation and the successful delivery of products to the marketplace.

Participants receive one free attempt at the globally recognized Professional Scrum Product Owner I (PSPO I) certification assessment.

Scrum.org authorizes only qualified instructors to deliver this course. The curriculum and course materials are maintained by Scrum.org to support consistent quality for participants worldwide.

Prerequisites

Participants will gain the most from the course if they have:

- Studied the Scrum Guide, which is required.
- Completed the Scrum Open Assessment.
- Completed the Scrum Product Owner Open Assessment.

Who Should Attend

The PSPO course can be valuable for anyone involved in software development using the Scrum framework.

It is particularly designed for:

- Professionals responsible for products from a business perspective
- People working in product management roles
- Individuals taking on, or preparing to take on, the highly accountable Scrum Product Owner role

What You Will Learn

Across the two-day course, participants develop and reinforce their understanding of the Product Owner role through instruction and team-based activities.

By the end of the course, participants should be able to:

- Better understand the responsibilities of the Product Owner in delivering a successful product.
- Apply an Agile perspective to product management.
- Improve decision-making around maximizing product value.
- Understand how metrics can be used to track value creation and successful product delivery.
- Recognize the relationship between Product Backlog management and product value.
- Apply Scrum principles and empiricism more effectively in the Product Owner role.
- Develop a stronger understanding of value-driven development and release management.

The PSPO course is not simply a presentation-based class. Participants work together on real-world cases, discussions, and practical team exercises throughout the training.
