Overview

Managing high-performing teams requires more than technical knowledge—it calls for self-awareness, strategic collaboration, and the ability to lead in a hybrid world. Managing high-performing teams is an immersive 3-day course designed to help managers and team leaders build cohesive, high-impact teams. You'll gain practical strategies for creating alignment, building accountability, and empowering individuals to perform at their best.

For managers or team leaders with some experience, this course equips you with the skills to enhance team performance and navigate the unique challenges of hybrid and virtual team management

Why Attend?

In today's complex work environment, successful team management goes beyond traditional approaches. This course prepares you to lead with impact, navigate hybrid team dynamics, and ensure that each team member's strengths are effectively utilised. You'll leave with the tools to build trust, maintain accountability, and drive high performance in a way that aligns with your organisational goals.

What makes this course stand out?

- Comprehensive and practical: covering everything from self-awareness to cross-functional collaboration, this course provides tools for real-world team management.
- Hybrid and virtual team focus: learn strategies designed to meet the challenges of managing teams in hybrid and virtual environments.
- Enhanced team collaboration: build a cohesive team where members understand each other's expertise, enabling efficient knowledge sharing and smooth collaboration.
- Empowerment through T-shaped skills: explore T-shaped skills to balance individual expertise with team collaboration.
- Personalised learning: reflect on your strengths and development areas, with guidance for applying insights directly to your team context.

Who Should Attend

Ideal for managers and team leaders with some experience in managing teams, or those who have attended MPDSUTM2 Stepping Up to Management at QA. This course is designed for those looking to enhance their skills in building high-performing teams in today's complex, digital, and hybrid workplace.

Participants should ideally have completed a psychometric test (such asQASDI2RTR Core Strengths: Results through Relationships®) or have a good understanding of their strengths and development areas as a manager. Bringing relevant assessments to the workshop is recommended for a more tailored learning experience.
