Strategic objectives tactically deployed.

Also known as Hoshin Kanri, the core of the strategy cascade process involves the translation of a robust strategic plan into a set of clear objectives, realised through precisely defined actions and projects. This course not only demonstrates the methodologies and disciplines required, but also explores the issues a practitioner might face when implementing this approach.

Prerequisites

Delegates must already hold a Lean Six Sigma Awareness certification

What You Will Learn

As a result of attending this course delegates will be able to:

- Draw a link between strategic models taught in business schools and Hoshin Planning
- Identify key actions and projects that will deliver the strategic objectives
- Use defined methodology to facilitate a senior leadership team through the creation of a business strategy
- Facilitate the implementation of the “strategy cascade” to deploy the business strategy
- Support programme planning activities using the 7MP tools. These are equally useful in the context of new product design, service design, major project planning or improvement programme planning
