Overview

Building trust is one of the most important foundations of excellent customer experience. For customer service teams, helpdesk professionals, technical support specialists, and customer-facing employees, creating trusted relationships directly impacts customer satisfaction, loyalty, and long-term business success.

Building Trusted Connections training is a comprehensive customer experience and relationship management program designed to help professionals strengthen trust-based customer interactions.

The program helps participants:

- Build stronger customer relationships
- Improve long-term customer loyalty
- Develop a customer-first mindset
- Conduct more effective customer conversations
- Strengthen Trusted Advisor capabilities

The training combines modern CX principles with trust-focused communication techniques.

The Building Trusted Connections Approach

The BTC framework focuses on creating trust, insight, and influence during every customer interaction.

The methodology is based on three core principles:

- Insight
- Influence
- Trust

This approach helps customer-facing professionals move beyond transactional communication and build meaningful long-term customer relationships.

The program is based on more than 20 years of customer experience research and field application.

Building Trusted Connections training helps organizations strengthen customer trust, improve customer loyalty, and deliver more meaningful customer experiences.

With this training, companies can:

- Increase customer satisfaction
- Build stronger customer relationships
- Improve customer loyalty
- Enhance CX performance
- Create long-term customer value

In customer-focused industries, strong trust-building communication skills create a major competitive advantage and support long-term business growth.
