Overview

Successful projects depend on more than sound project management practices. Strong governance, strategic direction, and active executive sponsorship are equally important in ensuring that projects deliver meaningful business value. Many high-profile initiatives fail not because of technical shortcomings, but because sponsors are unable to provide the leadership, decision-making, and organisational support required throughout the project lifecycle.

Developing Effective Project Sponsors is an interactive one-day programme designed to help current and aspiring project sponsors understand their responsibilities and maximise their contribution to project success. Participants explore how effective sponsorship aligns projects with organisational strategy, supports project managers, and ensures that resources are used to achieve the greatest value for stakeholders.

Through practical discussions and real-world scenarios, learners gain the confidence to fulfil the sponsor role throughout every stage of a project's lifecycle.
