Overview

Employee Emotional Intelligence is a practical professional development program designed to help employees and professionals strengthen their emotional intelligence skills, improve workplace relationships, manage stress effectively, and communicate with greater confidence and empathy. In today's workplace, technical expertise alone is no longer enough; Emotional Intelligence (EI) has become one of the most critical factors influencing individual performance, team collaboration, and leadership effectiveness.

This course provides participants with practical techniques for developing self-awareness, managing emotions, strengthening interpersonal relationships, giving constructive feedback, resolving conflict, and building resilience. Through real-world examples, interactive discussions, and hands-on exercises, learners gain valuable skills that support both personal growth and professional success.

By the end of the program, participants will be equipped to create stronger workplace relationships, navigate challenges more effectively, and contribute to a more positive and productive work environment.
